Lake City, Tennessee

Lake City is located on Interstate 75, approximately 26 miles north of downtown Knoxville. The population of Lake City is 1,778, which has been steadily declining since 1990 when the population was 2,187. Lake City is only one mile wide so the city considers the surrounding communities as contributors to the city's economic stability. The five mile radius around Lake City has 5,009 households and a population of 12,394.

According to the Site to Do Business (STDB), the five mile radius around Lake City has over $31 million in leakage in retail trade and food and drink sales. The majority of the commercial properties in Lake City are for sale or are not occupied by an operating business.

The geographic characteristics of Lake City do not make it desirable for industrial development. There is not enough available vacant property to locate a manufacturing facility.

Lake City is the half way point between Michigan and Florida and has an average of 41,000 cars driving past its two interstate exchanges daily.

Lake City is situated between Norris Lake and Windrock Park. Norris Lake is one of the premier lakes in the Southeastern United States. It is home to over 20 marinas that offers resort quality amenities including condos, cabins and houseboat rentals, restaurants, meeting and events space, and run about, pontoon boat and personal watercraft rentals.

The Clinch River is the tail waters of Norris Dam and flows in and out of Lake City's five mile radius. The Clinch River is a famous and popular trout fishery. It holds the state record for the largest brown trout. There are two lodging/retreats located on the Clinch and within the five mile radius of Lake City.

Windrock Park, which is 72,000 acres of off-roading trails, is adjacent to the City of Lake City. As a private business, they sale over 100,000 permits a year for off-roading activities. Lake City serves as the gateway to three of East Tennessee largest tourist attractions.

The City of Lake City, formerly named Coal Creek, was one of the cities that fueled the industrial revolution when coal was discovered there in 1840. The Coal Creek War of 1891 and 1892, a conflict between miners and their employers and the state of Tennessee, lead to the end of the convict lease system. The town and surrounding communities suffered great loses when two mines exploded in 1902 and 1911 that killed over 300 men. These historical events will be displayed at the Coal Creek Miners Museum.

The museum was created during the World's Fair in 1982 but has never had a permanent home. In September 2013, the Anderson County Commission donated $100,000 to the City of Lake City to purchase a building in downtown Lake City to house the museum.

The museum will not only tell the unique stories of Coal Creek, a.k.a. Lake City, it will also be a gateway to Windrock Park, the Devil's Triangle (a popular motorcycle route) and a catalyst for downtown development.

In May 2012, the City of Lake City and the Lake City Chamber of Commerce partnered with the Tennessee Valley Authority's Economic Department to identify common priorities and goals that would create community and economic development and to create action items for those goals. The three top priorities for economic and community development that were identified were to create a Downtown Development Authority that will foster retail growth, to create a citywide event and to develop a community/sports complex. (Report Attached as Appendix A)

The City of Lake City was awarded a Plan East Tennessee Community Enhancement Plan, which focused on creating a conceptual design for the city's recreation and downtown commerce area. The City is currently seeking public and private funding to implement the suggested designs. (Report Attached as Appendix B)

The City of Lake City is ideally located but there are few manufacturing and professional jobs offered within the city limits and there is little opportunity to development such jobs. However, retail and tourism businesses and jobs opportunities are a real possibility. Lake City is in the process of changing its name to Rocky Top, Tennessee with the sole purpose of recruiting retail and tourism related businesses.

The City of Lake City and the Lake City Chamber of Commerce plans to work with the Anderson County Chamber's Retail Initiative to recruit retail and tourism businesses that will complement the existing tourism activities that take place on Norris Lake, Windrock Park and the Clinch River.

The Anderson County Chamber's Retail Development Coordinator will be attending the International Council of Shopping Center's Retail Conference in Vegas in May, the Tennessee/Kentucky Retail Conference in July and the South East Retail Conference in the fall where she will be promoting Lake City.

The city and the two chambers also recognize that most adventure tourism related businesses are small and locally owned businesses. Therefore, workshops will be provided to encourage small business development and entrepreneurship.

In addition, the Anderson County Chamber's Retail Initiative is creating a website that is dedicated to retail development. It will feature statistical data, available properties and tools that developers can use to locate a business in Lake City.

The City of Lake city recognizes that its future lies in retail and tourism development and is focusing its energy to revitalize the city using those economic drivers.

Group Work

To determine the group's priorities/goals and focus, TVA Community Development walked participants through an exercise where the group was split into five groups and each group was asked to list five initiatives they wanted to focus on in the community. Each group reported back their findings. Because of duplicate initiatives from groups, the list was consolidated. After the initiatives were listed, every participant was given three sticker dots. They were to place a dot next to the initiatives they felt to be most important. They were asked to only give one dot per item.

Below is each group's list. A (**) indicates the item was crossed off the final list because it was a duplicate. The total number of dots/votes for each item is listed at the end of the statement in bold, where applicable.

PROJECT DESCRIPTION 2

Lake City History

Lake City was originally known as Coal Creek. Coal was discovered in the area in 1840 and the town's population grew along with the mining industry. The Coal Creek War of 1891-1892 was an important historical event. It was a conflict between miners and their employers and the state of Tennessee. The miners rebelled against the state law that allowed convict labor to replace them. The rebellion ended in the miner's favor with the state ending the program. Other events include the mine explosions in 1902 and 1911 that killed 268 men. Coal mining peaked in the early 1900's, but financial problems that developed during the Great Depression closed many of the mines. Coal Creek Coal Company, the oldest mining company in the state, closed in 1955.

The completion of Norris Dam in 1936 by the Tennessee Valley Authority forever changed the areas landscape. Following it's completion, the name of the town was changed from Coal Creek to Lake City to capitalize on the project. The dam had significant impact on Lake City: providing jobs, electricity, and increased tourism. During the mid 70's completion of Interstate 75 greatly changed the makeup of Lake City. Commercial activity developed near the interstate and declined in the downtown. Today the town retains two distinct districts: the modern commercial developments along the interstate and the original residential and commercial core along the railroad tracks and Main Street.

Process

The Community Design Center, with the help from volunteer professionals, Greg Campbell AIA and Sean Vasington, ASLA was able to design a site plan that reflected the community input that was gathered through a public meeting. The public meeting was held on September 19, 2013 in the Lake City City Hall. The top three items that the community requested to be developed on the site were an Old Country General Store, decorative streetlights, and building code enforcement. The items they did not want to be developed included convenience stores, big box stores, and storage buildings.

The focus area was Main Street (U.S. Hwy. 25 W) as it passes the existing library, baseball field and into downtown Lake City. The master plan stops at Fourth Street, but the proposed improvements can easily continue through out the downtown. Some other suggested improvements include: traffic calming, downtown beautification, adding sidewalks, preservation of historic buildings, and an emphasis on Lake City's coal mining history.

Project Description Continued 3

Assets & Opportunities

The downtown Lake City Master plan explores the town's unique, existing assets and provides for future opportunities. Lake City holds a small-town charm that is important to maintain. With improvements such as the extension and enhancement of existing sidewalks, residents of Lake City can be connected across the downtown area to various shops, restaurants, and community activities. This along with a newly proposed splash pad, greenway loop, and additional streetscaping helps to emphasize the developing character of downtown while also promoting healthy lifestyles and a more pedestrian friendly environment.

Concepts

Starting to the north of Lake City, the Design Team looked at the existing community area, which consists of a community building, baseball field, and library. Recommendations for the area are to renovate and expand the existing community building, define existing parking by adding islands and landscaping, and reworking the existing pavilion to allow a new drive to a planned Farmer's Market. The Farmer's Market will occupy an existing covered shed, which will include the addition of new signage, parking, a reworked entrance drive and two half-court basketball courts. A proposed greenway and pedestrian bridge will connect this area to the downtown.

South of the existing Community Area, the Utility Board property for sale should be redeveloped. The property is ideal for commercial development with parking in the back. Wide sidewalks should be provided for possible outdoor cafes. Across the street, landscaping should be added to the existing Grocery Store parking lot. The radius where Creek Street runs into U.S. Hwy 25W should be increased to allow for tractor-trailer turning. Considering the proposed commercial development, implementing a four-way-stop at this intersection will add to public safety.

Project Description Continued 4

Entering downtown Lake City, a welcome sign is proposed to the right of the bridge. The existing bridge is to be widened by cantilevering a pedestrian section on either side. Additional parking should be included behind City Hall to replace parking removed to develop the entry. Adjacent to the proposed Coal Creek Museum, a public plaza should be created which can be used to locate a historic cannon, Christmas tree and public events. To the rear of the Coal Creek Museum, six new parking spaces for the Museum staff should be added. Tourist buses for the Museum will drive down Main Street and turn down Second Street to the alley behind the museum. Visitors will unload from the buses at the new covered walk way. The bus drivers will then drive back to main and park at the new municipal lot on Second Street. Infill buildings are proposed on Main Street (see elevation) and should be of a historical nature. On Second Street, on-street parking should be added. At main intersections stamped asphalt and clearly striped crosswalks help delineate pedestrian crossings. Landscaped islands should be added throughout the existing and proposed parking lots. Historically themed 16' light poles should be added throughout Main Street.

To the east of downtown Lake City, existing Baseball fields are to be developed to add 8' sidewalks that connect to Main Street. Using a vacant field, currently used for ad-hoc parking, a landscaped parking lot should be developed for 40 cars. To the right of the parking lot, a new splash pad and covered pavilion is placed. Existing parking next to the elementary school should be reworked to add a new bay for 12 cars. An existing road between the baseball fields should be closed off for pedestrian use only and connected to the proposed greenway.

SUSTAINABLE DESIGN 5

The Community Design Center has established a policy to promote sustainable design and energy efficiency in all its projects. Sustainable design is sometimes known as green building or environmental building. Green building is the practice of increasing the efficiency of buildings and their use of energy, water, and materials, and reducing building impacts on human health and the environment, through better siting, design, construction, operation, maintenance, and removal — the complete building life cycle. Green building is increasingly governed and driven by standards, such as the Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) rating system developed by the U.S. Green Building Council.

The related concepts of sustainable development and stainability are integral to green building. Effective green building can lead to 1) reduced operating costs by increasing productivity and using less energy and water, 2) improved public and occupant health due to improved indoor air quality, and 3) reduced environmental impacts by, for example, lessening storm water runoff and the heat island effect. Practitioners of green building often seek to achieve not only ecological but aesthetic harmony between a structure and its surrounding natural and built environment. The appearance and style of sustainable homes and buildings can be nearly indistinguishable from their less sustainable counterparts. Some methods for achieving a more sustainable structure is through the use of natural lighting, good insulating practices and recycled / renewable building materials.

Sustainable design can also be applied to site development. Use of native and noninvasive plant material helps create a sustainable landscape. The use of porous surfaces for drives and parking reduces concentrated runoff and helps limit the migration of automotive related contaminates. Other sustainable landscape practices include use of appropriate plant material to eliminate the need for watering as well as tactics to use roof runoff to benefit planting areas.

The Community Design Center has also established a policy to promote Crime Prevention through Environmental Design, or CPTED. The National Institute of Crime Prevention's CPTED theory is: The proper design and effective use of the built environment can lead to a reduction in the fear and incidence of crime.

Key CPTED concepts:

- Natural surveillance, creating areas where people and their activities can be readily observed. A design concept directed at keeping intruders under observation.
- Natural access control, controlling access to the property and / or building. The primary thrust of an access control strategy is to deny access to a crime target and to create a perception of risk in offenders.
- Territorial reinforcement, establishing a sense of ownership, defining boundaries. Provide transitional zones with clearly defined boundaries; public space, transitional semi-private space, and finally the private space.

GENERAL GUIDELINES:

Landscaping:

- Security landscaping, use material with thorny or spiny growth, open not dense foliage.
- 6 x 2 rule, tree canopies no lower than 6', shrubs etc. no higher than 2'.
- Place "L" shaped brackets on top of low walls, creates pod seating and eliminates skateboarding.
- In brick walls, raise bricks every so often to create pod seating and skateboard control.
- Benches, use narrow rails, benches with bars, and other various controls which result in uncomfortable seating will discourage loitering and eliminates sleeping.
- Artwork, murals with people actually intimidates potential criminals and discourages inappropriate activity.
- Signs, constructed so people can see what's on the other side, i.e., not solid from top to bottom, allow see-thru space.

Buildings:

- Limit the number of access entrance points to the facility.
- Provide clear border of controlled space using fences, hedges, pavers, paving patterns and low walls.
- Building designs with occupied spaces facing the entrance both inside and out, as well as parking areas, including loading and unloading areas.
- Place safe activities in unsafe locations, i.e., place sitting benches to position eyes on areas of concern like parking lots and green spaces.
- 45-degree building entrances, allowing for visibility when leaving the building, no blind spot for predators.
- Control entrance points using built devices and / or landscape material. Clearly define the entrance points, and position those points in plain view.
- Place stairs with clear glass or glass blocks on exterior walls, makes them visible from the outside.
- Occupied spaces placed to provide observance for all point of access.
- Common areas should be used for a purpose, avoid common areas with no specific purpose.
- Consider clear glass at eye level in offices to observe circulation spaces.
- Open stair treads eliminate hiding spaces.

Lighting:

- 90% of all crime happens after dark, between dusk and 4:00 AM.
- Light for human activity, humans protect sites, not lighting.
- Follow the Illuminating Engineering Society (IES) for lighting standards, both illumination levels and uniformity levels.

Fencing:

- Fencing should be transparent to eliminate opportunity for people to conceal themselves and to allow for visual observance.
- Fencing can be accomplished with appropriate landscaping such as thorny or spiny foliage.
- If a chain link type fence is used do so without the pipe along the top, use a cable instead, which is more difficult to climb over.
- Fencing is an effective separator from semi-private to private space. Use fencing that has character such as artwork or other features along the top is a good space divider and has the opportunity to be appropriate for the character of the architectural surroundings.
- Hostile vegetation or vines in front of blank walls discourages graffiti.
